Join us for a restful and fun weekend.
Enjoy fabulous meals, yoga classes, and the beautiful facilities and grounds of Loyola Ecological Retreat Center. Spend time among the giant oak trees and native plants, rest and read on the patio, or go on the zip line across the tree tops!!!

Friday night will be an optional retreat night with dinner and free time to enjoy the center. All Friday night attendees will stay in the shared bath single rooms.

NEW: Saturday-only option has been added. Register for one day and add an optional lunch and dinner.

The center has a large organic garden that provides many of the ingredients that the chef uses for the meals.

LOYOLA UNIVERSITY CHICAGO RETREAT
AND ECOLOGY CAMPUS
WOODSTOCK, IL

OCTOBER 6-8, 2017

Teacher
Kathleen Wright

Kathleen Wright has been studying Yoga since 1974 and has been teaching Yoga since 1976. In 1983 she founded the Garden of Yoga in LaGrange, Illinois. Her students include many of the Yoga teachers in the Chicago area.

In 2009 she joined with her colleague Patricia Layton to form the Bhavana Institute for Yoga and Ayurveda. Kathleen is the director and primary teacher of Yoga Studies and Yoga Teacher Training. Kathleen was also a founding member of the Yoga Circle and the Wild Onion Yoga.

Kathleen graduated from the Iyengar Yoga Institute of San Francisco in 1983. She has been a certified Iyengar Yoga teacher since 1983. She has studied directly with Swami Veda, direct disciple of Swami Rama, Yogacharya Shri BKS Iyengar, Geeta and Prasant Iyengar. Her teachers in the United States are Ramanand Patel, Lois Steinburg, and Janet MacLeod. Kathleen is recognized as a RYT 500 by the Yoga Alliance Registry. Kathleen continues to study and practice Yoga daily. She does not believe that Yoga brings enlightenment, but rather helps us uncover our own inherent Divinity.
