You are all aware that refinement in your yoga practice is endless. This is also true of teaching yoga. We are fortunate to be in the Iyengar system where we can continue to grow our teaching in several ways; continuing education is required to maintain your certificate if you are a CIYT; progressing to the next level of certification are two options. Janet has been an assessor since the inception of the certification process in the US and is aware of the areas where candidates tend to be weak. She will address this and other topics to bring your teaching to a higher level.
